

Introduction

In ancient India, there were many Kings and Emperors. Who were known for their bravery and kindness, But very few of the kings, who had a weakness were ashamed in front of their people (because of their ignorance).

Here we have a story about such a king. Who had weakness of being fond of clothes, Which made him embarrassed in front of his country people?