

The Town Mouse And The Country Mouse

Summary Part 1

The Town Mouse And The Country Mouse is a story of two cousin mouse, one living in town and the other living in the countryside. One day, the town mouse fell ill due to cough and he was advised by the doctor to stay in the countryside for few days. So, the town mouse had written a letter to his cousin living in the countryside asking him if he could stay with him for few days.

After receiving the reply from the country mouse, the town mouse packed his bag and left for the country. He took a train to the country. It was a bright and sunny day and the town mouse felt very uncomfortable as it was very hot. He wished if he could have an air-conditioned coach. He couldn't help with the situation but grumble and sit quietly and wait for the station to arrive.

He got a relief after seeing his cousin, the country mouse and complained about the dreadful journey he had. He thought of having some cold juice or lemonade but as it was a countryside, he had to manage with coconut water. To his utter surprise, he was offered some roots and tender sugar cane. He wasn't happy to have such raw foods. Later on, he was asked to sleep on the ground. The town mouse was a little uncomfortable to live on such condition. He was quite surprised to witness the silence in the country. So, he asked his cousin about the silence. It is then, he learnt about the lifestyle of the countryside. The next morning when he saw there wasn't any breakfast ready and that they had to search for food in the farm, he was disappointed. He told his cousin that he had forgotten something and thus he would leave for the town.
