

The Town Mouse And The Country Mouse

Summary Part 2:

After the town mouse had left for the town, the country mouse was worried for him and had written a letter to him. He told him in the letter that he would like to see him if he is doing well or not. After receiving the letter, the mouse was in a hurry, so he sent a telegram to the country mouse. Soon after that the country mouse left for the town and was surprised by the chaotic environment of the town. He couldn't understand for the reason for light in the middle of the day, the dreadful noise of the cars and lorries etc. He was searching for peace all around but was unable to find the same.

It is when he asked for some water the town mouse has shown him that there was plenty of food for them to eat. It was then that both of them had to run for their life. The country mouse was shocked to run for his life as he had never faced such terrible situation in the countryside. But they couldn't enjoy for long. They had to run again twice as someone had opened the kitchen cupboard door. Seeing all these the country mouse was terrified and decided to leave his country. He told his cousin it's better to eat less but eat in peace. And, so he left the place.

We see, that both of them loved their home.
