

Morals:

We learn from the story, that it is better to live a peaceful life and settle for less than to have a luxurious life with no security. We see this when the country mouse visits the town and both of them struggles for their. The story reminds us of the famous saying that 'home is always better.'