Oral Discourse: Talk on - The place you like to live (a town or a village).

Substantiate your opinion.

Here is the story of “The Town Mouse and the Country Mouse.” Would you like to know how the Town Mouse feels when he visits the countryside?

Receiving the invitation from the country mouse, the town mouse packed his bags and caught the next train to the countryside. The day was bright and sunny and soon the town mouse began to feel hot in the train.

“I wish there was an air-conditioned coach,” he said to himself. “I feel very uncomfortable here”.

However, there was nothing he could do about it. So, he grumbled to himself while the train chugged slowly into the country. The country mouse was waiting at the station.

“Oh, cousin”, the town mouse said as soon as he got off the train. “The train was dreadful, I feel terribly hot and thirsty. I hope you have something ice-cold for me to drink at home.”

“Well, I have some water,” said the country mouse. “But I can look around for some coconut water if you like.”

“Coconut water?” asked the town mouse in horror. “Don’t you have any orange juice or lemonade?”

“I am afraid not,” replied his cousin. “But I found a very nice piece of root today and a tender bit of sugar-cane. I’m sure you will enjoy that.”

“Root? Sugar-cane?” the town mouse exclaimed. “But I don’t eat raw food like that.”

The country mouse said, “This is what we eat in the country. So, I’m afraid you too have to eat this. Try it. It’s not bad.”

The town mouse did not enjoy his dinner at all. He nibbled at the root and the sugar-cane and then said he wanted to sleep. The country mouse showed a corner in the mouse hole and said, “There you are; you can sleep there.”

“On the ground?” asked the town mouse. “Do I have to sleep on the ground?”

“Yes, this is how we sleep in the country,” his cousin answered.

As the town mouse lay down on the hard, cold ground, he suddenly thought of something. “Cousin,” he called out.

“Yes, what is it?” the country mouse asked.

“Why is it so quiet here? Where are all the cars and lorries? Where are the radios and the televisions? Where are all the lights?”

“This is how it is in the country,” his cousin replied. “It’s always quiet in the country. Sometimes it is quieter than today. My grandfather says that our village is the quietest among all the villages in our district.” “Oh! Is it? The country is a strange place,” said the town mouse. But he said to himself, “I don’t think I like this place.”

Next morning, the town mouse found that there was no breakfast ready. His cousin told him that they had to go to the nearby farm in search of food.

“We are sure to find something there,” he said. “A nice piece of root or a tender bit of sugar-cane.”

But the town mouse had enough. “Thank you, cousin,” he said. “But I think I’ll catch the next train home. I have suddenly remembered that I have forgotten something.”

A few days later, the country mouse wrote to his cousin, the town mouse. Here is the letter.

*Mouse Hole, Mouse Country.

My dear cousin,

I hope you are well. I am worried about you. I would like to visit you and make sure you are alright.

With love,

Your cousin, Country Mouse

*To Town Mouse,
Kitchen Cupboard, Mouse Town.*

The town mouse received the letter and read it. Since he was in a hurry, he sent a telegram to the country mouse. Here is his telegram.

OVERJOYED (.) COME SOON (.)
TOWN MOUSE

A few days later, the country mouse arrived in the town. He was surprised by the noise and the lights.

“Why are there lights even in the middle of the night?” he asked.

“This is the town,” his cousin replied. “Here there are lights even in the middle of the day.”

“And what is this dreadful noise that never stops?” asked the country mouse.

“That is the traffic,” the town mouse replied. “That is the noise made by buses, lorries, cars and aeroplanes.”

But the country mouse did not like it at all. “All this noise has made my head ache,” he said. “Could I have some water to drink?”

“Why only water?” said the town mouse. “Look at what there is for you - ice cold lemonade, orange juice ... which one do you want?”

“Just some water,” answered the country mouse. “Some water and a little bit of food.”

“I have plenty of food, cousin,” said the town mouse proudly. “You can eat as much as you like.”

Sure enough, the house of the town mouse at the back of a kitchen cupboard was full of most delicious food.

There was bread and jam, different kinds of fruits, slabs of chocolate and a huge piece of lovely cheese.

“Eat, cousin, eat,” said the town mouse. But just then, there was a sound like a thunder and the town mouse shouted. “Run, cousin, run, run.”

The town mouse pushed the country mouse out through a hole in the back of the cupboard. The country mouse felt his heart beating very fast, “But what is it?” he asked.

“Sssh.,” whispered the town mouse. “Wait”.

When everything was silent again, the town mouse crept out of the hole. He was quite cheerful again.

“Come out now, cousin,” he said. “That was only somebody opening the cupboard door. We are safe now.”

But they were not safe for very long. Twice more, they had to run for safety when somebody opened the cupboard door.

The country mouse got quite tired of running and hiding. “I want to go back to the country,” he said. “We may not get much food there, but at least we can eat in peace.”

So, the next day, the country mouse went back to his house in the country and the town mouse stayed on in his cupboard in the town. And as far as I know, they did not visit each other again.

Grammar

I. Read the following sentences and notice the underlined words.

It's always quiet in the country. Sometimes it is quieter than today. My grandfather says that our village is the quietest among all the villages in our district.

The underlined words are adjectives. But they are in different degrees of comparison. The first one is in positive degree. The second and the third are in comparative and superlative degrees respectively.

Positive Degree

quiet

Comparative Degree

quieter

Superlative Degree

quietest

Here is a list of adjectives. Write the other degrees of them. The first one is done for you. (Use a dictionary and check your work.)

Note: Usually short words take 'er' and 'est' as suffixes to form other degrees.

Positive Degree

small

clever

tall

bright

Comparative Degree

darker

Superlative Degree

darkest

Note: Words with two or more than two syllables take ‘more’ and ‘most’ respectively in comparative degree and superlative degree.

Listening and Speaking

I. An old student of your school visits your school. Your teacher introduces her to your class like this. (Now the teacher has to read the following passage.)

My dear students! Look, who is here! This is Kumari Nithya. I am very happy to introduce her to you. She was my student; I mean, a student of this school. You know, she is now working as a software engineer in a big company. When I remember Nithya, I see a pretty little girl with two plaits sitting in the first row eagerly waiting for a chance to speak. She would answer any question at the drop of a hat.

When I talked to others, she would become restless and went on saying ma'am, ma'am, thrusting her hand into air. No wonder she passed S.S.C. in first class and scored more than 550 marks. I hope you have seen her name in our H.M.'s room, haven't you?

Going by her marks, don't think she is just a bookworm. She did equally well in sports and games. She led our school kabaddi team to state level competitions. There are many other things that I would like to share with you, but I'm leaving them, especially the naughty things, for her to share with you.

Now Nithya will address you. Nithya

Imagine you are all grown up and have come back to visit your school. Introduce yourself to the teacher and the class, saying what you are doing in your life and how you feel about it.

II. Listen to the conversation between Sulochana and Madhavi. (Now the teacher has to read the conversation given in Annexure - 1, Unit - 1)

Now, work in pairs and talk about your experience of living in a town / village.

III. In groups, read the story The Town Mouse and the Country Mouse by following the ideas given below. Convert the story in to a play. Write the script for first scene and perform a short play.

- Read the story once again.
- Identify the scenes.
- Identify the characters for each scene.
- Pick out the dialogues of the characters.
- Identify the locations of the events.
- Decide settings according to the scenes.
- Assign roles to the members of the groups.
- Enact the drama before the whole class.

IV. Have a discussion in the whole class on how the performance could be improved in terms of delivery of dialogues, costumes, action, settings, etc.

V. You have already written the script for one scene. Develop the other scenes in the same manner and make it a complete script for the play.

How well did I write the play script?

Fill in the boxes using yes/ somewhat/ no.
I was able to fix the events of the play well.
I fixed the characters of the play.
I used appropriate dialogues in my play.
I was able to express the feelings of the characters.
I concluded my play well.
I was able to express my ideas in apt words.
The sentences I used were properly connected.
I used proper punctuation and spacing.
