

CHAPTER 1*NUTRITION*Food supplying system:*Introduction:

Food is needed by all living organisms mainly for growth and repair.

A variety of substances are taken as food by every organisms from single cellular organisms like amoeba to the complex multicellular organisms like the human body.

The mode of acquiring food varies from organism to organism. You have studied in the previous classes about how different organisms get their food.

